

Abstract of the DisclosureFILLED BEDDING CONSTRUCTION HAVING CHANNELS
WITH ALTERNATING LENGTH PORTIONS

The bedding article comprises a plurality of channels which extend longitudinally or laterally of the featherbed and into which fill can be blown. Each channel is divided into two longitudinal portions, accomplished by a line of lateral stitching across the channel. The two portions have different lengths, with the two lengths alternating from end to end for adjacent channels.